Permanent Indirect Jobs	3,893	3,358
Permanent Induced Jobs	3,743	3,557
TOTAL ESTIMATED JOBS	28,608	37,348

Permanent Indirect Jobs

The indirect impact is the value of inputs purchased in subsequent rounds of spending by the supporting industries. So the indirect jobs result from the supporting industries related to each project.

Permanent Induced Jobs

The induced impact (this impact is often called the household-spending effect) is the value of goods and services purchased by all workers whose earnings are affected by the final-demand change. The induced jobs come from the increased spending of the workers that are in the directly impacted project and the supporting industries to that project.

The indirect jobs and the induced jobs are shown separately because there must be an assumption that the additional household spending is occurring in the area of the project.

* Project Delayed

Cheniere LNG - Portion of the permanent jobs are attributed to Phase 3. They are reported in aggregate until the numbers are attributed to each phase by the company.
